

Asperger Syndrome: Meeting social, emotional and intellectual needs in the home and school environments

Presented by Alison Brown

Alison is a registered psychologist and a qualified teacher with major studies in the areas of psychology, mathematics/computing and music. Alison has been involved in running programs for gifted students since 1992. She has lectured at Deakin University and has provided extensive consultation and training programs to schools in Victoria, Queensland, Switzerland and Germany. Alison is currently working in private practice in Melbourne, specialising in educational assessments, counselling and gifted children.

Alison's presentation will focus on the primary school aged child with Asperger Syndrome and will endeavour to address practical strategies for teaching social skills, counselling and emotional support for children with Asperger Syndrome and intellectual skills, including giftedness.
